A drop of sunlight is immortal - just my thoughts

By Timothy Liu. Age 9. As a drop of water, I would probably start out in a puddle, lake, river, stream, pond, or ocean, as part of the liquid (water) there. When the sun came out, it would start to heat the water. When the water got hot enough I would evaporate. I would turn into water vapor, the gas form of water, and float up into the atmosphere.
